PARLIAMENT.—The Commons are not the Parliament, neither are the Lords nor the Crown; but the three united are the "Estates," which in their triple capacity constitute the Parliament, and exercise the legislative functions of the realm. A Peer is of course as much a member of Parliament as a Commoner, while the Crown is a whole estate of Parliament centered in the person of an individual. The two Houses, convened by Royal authority, and acting jointly with the Crown, constitute the Legislature or Parliament; and its Acts are called indifferently "Statutes" or "Acts of Parliament;" they have the full force and effect of law. The power of Parliament is held to be transcendent, and subject to no limitation whatever. An Act of Parliament binds every subject, and even the Sovereign, when specially named therein; and no authority less than that of Parliament can dispense with or abrogate a Statute.—Dod's Parliamentary Companion.
