

Arab Love Song.

Words by EDWARD OXFORD.

Moderato, con tenerezza.

Music by EDWIN M. LOTT.

S

mf

I. O mai - den, the sun from the
2. When lone in the de - sert a
3. O mai - den, shall hearts such as east now ad - van - ces, And clothes the far hills with a man - tle of gold; But its vi - sion a - ri - ses Of one who is weep - ing and watch - ing for me, Each ours be dis - part - ed? Shall life be re - solved but to tears and to sighs? Ah!

beams, what are they when com - pared to the glan - ces I haste from a far a - way throb of my heart with each tear sym - pa - thi - ses, And yearns for the hour when no nay; 'tis as hard, love, to part the true-heart-ed As 'twould be to se - ver the land to be-hold? It is true that su-perb are the rays of the morn-ing, As sor - row shall be. I breathe to the phan - tom in tones full of plead-ing, The stars from the skies! So list to my plead - ing; my swift steed is yearn-ing To

ral - len - tan - do. a tempo.

ral - len - tan - do. a tempo.

o'er the green val - leys they dain - ti - ly rove, But sweet - er to me is the words I de - sire its sweet i - mage should hear; And when from my sight the dear bear us to re-gions where - in I am chief; In doubt I came thence, but I sempre staccato.

smile now a - dom - ing The face of the mai - den I wor - ship and love, shade is re - ce - ding, I dream that it has - tens my mes - sage to bear, now am re - turn - ing With one whose sweet pre - sence is fa - tal to grief!

colla voce. R. H.

1st and 2nd verses. S. | last verse.