

Neber Dream of Constant Bliss.

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED FOR THE PIANO-FORTE, FOR GODEX'S LADY'S BOOK

BY C. EVEREST.

Entered according to Act of Congress, A. D., 1863, by C. Everest, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Andante.

p Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

f Sva... ad lib.

1. Nev - er dream of con - stant bliss, In a chang - ing world like this; Now with
 2. I be - held the bark with sail, Ri - ding no - bly in the gale; Soon I
 3. Ma - ny bards have sung of youth, Fresh with nov - el - ty and truth; Deck'd in sun - shine of de - light, Then with wretch - ed - ness and night. Morn I've saw the moun - tain wave, Roll - ing o'er her co - ral grave. f - be - garb of fai - ry dress, Shi - ning forth in love - li - ness. Mark the

NEVER DREAM OF CONSTANT BLISS.

seen with stainless sky, Shine as bright as beau-ty's eye; But at held the hap-py bride, Standing by here lov-er's side; But ere change, for time doth show, Mingling shades of joy or woe; Though its noon in an-gry form, Is-sued forth the whirlwind storm. But at long his love grew cold, Sorrows then in tears were told. But ere smiles are bright to-day, Soon you see them fade a-way. Though it's noon in an-gry form, Is-sued forth the whirl wind storm.

long his love grew cold, Sor-rows then in tears were told.
smiles are bright to-day. Soon you see them fade a-way.

Rit.

cres. f dim. col voce. p

Ritard.