Victorian Image Collection: The John Lewis Childs Seed Catalog, 1906

This preview brings you thumbnail images of our complete John Lewis Childs Seed Catalog 1906 clip art package.

Please note that these are thumbnails only and not to scale. Thus, you may find a 2-inch image side-by-side with an 8-inch image – and they'll appear exactly the same size. Our purpose is to simply provide an overview of what our package contains.

This preview also includes our license agreement.

This collection brings you 336* fully edited images of flowers, fruits and vegetables from the John Lewis Childs Seed Catalog of 1906, including two full-color prints.

John Lewis Childs (1856-1921) was a horticultural businessman and politician who founded Floral Park, NY. He is credited as being the founder of the first mail-order seed catalog business in the US. He was also the founder and publisher of the popular Mayflower gardening magazine.

Seed catalogs brought the Victorian and Edwardian gardener some of the most stunning floral prints of the era; today, such catalogs are very hard to find, and are considered rare collectors' items. (The Smithsonian has a large online collection of seed catalog images.) In fact, the best source of color seed catalog prints today tends to be Victorian scrap albums, where collectors lovingly saved these wonderful prints.

This particular catalog dates from 1906; however, the majority of the images in the collection actually date from the 1890's, as you'll see from their individual copyright dates. The collection includes 243 floral and plant images, and 93 images of vegetables.

These images are presented at 600 dpi, and, of course, at their full, original size. They are ideal for art projects, scrapbooking, classroom use. Enjoy!

VictorianVoices.net Image User Agreement

Our images and prints come from sources in the public domain. That means we cannot and do not claim “copyright ownership” of individual images. It also means that no one else can claim copyright to these images - including you, even if you alter them.

We’ve seen collections with highly restrictive license agreements - collections that only allow you to make a limited number of copies, or use images only for personal projects, etc. We have no such restrictions (and we’re not even sure such restrictions are legal!).

You may use our images for any sort of project you wish. You may use them for personal projects or for commercial products. You may use as many images as you wish, and you may make as many copies of an individual image as you wish. You can use images in publications with no restrictions on the number of copies published. You can use them to create products on sites like Café Press or Zazzle. If you are selling a product, you can make as many products as you like.

Our single restriction is this: You may not reproduce any VictorianVoices.net image collection as a whole or in part to resell as your own image collection, either in print or electronically, or in any other format now known or likely to become available in the future (including Klingon data crystals). If you wish to use a selection of images in a different type of collection (for example, if you wished to use a collection of quilt patterns in a larger collection of Victorian quilt patterns), please contact us for permission at editors@victorianvoices.net.

Your purchase of any image and/or print collection from VictorianVoices.net or our associated Etsy store constitutes your acceptance of these terms.
